

Professional role players ltd

PrP was established over 18 years ago and is one of the most experienced medical role play company's in the UK. Although we are based in London we work throughout the UK and Europe.

We have a large diverse team of very experienced medical role players with extensive knowledge of the Health Service. Our role players portray authentic, honest simulated patients and are trained to deliver productive, qualitative feedback. A core group has been developed to portray Healthcare workers for assessments and training development purposes.

PrP will enhance any training programme and listed below are just a few areas of work that we are currently involved in:

- Devising Training and Development projects for Health care workers at all levels.
- Specialists in teaching communication skills for both undergraduate and postgraduates, either for their exams or self development.
- Extensive involvement with Simulations, OSCEs and presentational skills.

Competitive rates for all our clients.

For more information please contact:

Phill Doulton

Tel: 020 8342 0099

E-mail: prplayers@aol.com

www.prplayers.co.uk